This story was originally published in Day One*, a weekly literary journal dedicated to short fiction and poetry from emerging writers.*

A mom moves to Hollywood so that Sara, her precocious, driven daughter, can fulfill her dreams of becoming a child star. Meanwhile, a serial killer specializing in decapitation is on the loose, climbing the Hollywood food chain with each new victim. Mom wants to protect her Sara—both from the Hollywood Lopper and the talent scouts that have begun to circle her like vultures. But after Mom gives an ambitious father advice for his own child's career, he tracks her down and starts to embody her worst fears. Is he simply another lonely parent, vicariously living his own lost dreams through his child? Or is he the man terrorizing Hollywood, cutting down the hungry and the hopeful, desperate for his own five minutes of fame?
