What do the exploits of a wise old philosopher, a brave young knight, and a musician prince have in common? Each of these three charming parables offers young readers a distinctive point of view and a valuable message about life. With whimsical color illustrations that are miniature works of art, these books will surely entertain young readers and adults alike. For ages six and up. In Diogenes' Lantern the eccentric (and quite funny) Greek philosopher Diogenes, who lived in the 4th century B.C., wanders the ancient city of Corinth wearing only an old cloak and a barrel. Using a lantern in daytime, he proves the local philosophers wrong. Diogenes teaches even Alexander the Great an important lesson about wisdom and life! The title character of The Perfect Knight has a penchant for fighting but ultimately learns the virtues of peace over war, as a beautiful damsel explains to the young knight what it takes for him to be truly perfect in her eyes. Prince Orpheus presents the story of young Orpheus and his magical music. With his singing and the sound of his lyre, Orpheus puts a scary fire-breathing dragon to sleep. He helps his friends, Jason and the Argonauts, capture the Golden Fleece. Then he saves his wife from the Underworld, thus showing that anything is possible with music, talking, and a little bit of "pluck."

Ella Woods:

As a student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library or make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their interest. They just do what the teacher want, like asked to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring and can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever we really wish for. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Diogenes' Lantern can make you feel more interested to read.
