Reinventing London (Perspectives) Bridget Rosewell
London has enjoyed an extraordinary period of growth in the past generation, symbolized by the towers of Canary Wharf built on the skeleton of the old docks. Finance was at the heart of this, so how can London's economy be reinvented after the financial crisis? Success will depend on several factors that must go together: growing service sectors in addition to finance; making it possible for the people who work in London to live there in pleasant and affordable surroundings; and investing in communications and transport links. This must include an early decision on airport investment to improve global links, given that the capital's main airport is full to capacity – where the extra capacity is located is less important than starting work on expansion as soon as possible.

Belinda Fergerson:

As a university student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library in order to make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's spirit or real their pastime. They just do what the teacher want, like asked to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring as well as can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for you. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Reinventing London (Perspectives) can make you truly feel more interested to read.
